

MARDIA PRIZE PROPOSAL

For the 2023 Award

Criteria

- The RSS is launching its seventh round of the Mardia Prize, which funds events or workshops that bring statisticians together with other scientific communities.
- The Society welcomes proposals for workshops to be run over a two-year period during 2024. Funding of £3,000–£4,000 per year will be made available to support these workshops. The events/workshops should be topic specific and maintain a sustained focus.
- Applications are welcome from those at all career stages, and we particularly welcome applications from researchers in the early stages of their careers.

To apply, please complete the form and send it to honours@rss.org.uk (The form text fields expand).
The deadline for the Mardia Prize is Tuesday 31 October 2023.

Title of workshop series:
A workshop series description and time plan, including details of why and how the events would benefit the communities involved:

The applicant/team's previous engagement with the non-statistical community:
A plan for dissemination of the workshop outcomes to the wider community:
A brief workshop budget, including anticipated leverage funding, if any:
A description of the applying team or group if applicable: Please also attach a CV for the main applicant of no more than two pages.

I confirm that I have supplied all the requested details.

Name:

---

Title:

---

Date:

---

Do not attach additional letters of recommendation or support as they will not be considered as part of the nomination.